INTRODUCTION

Valuable old documents have a strange way of making their appearance, and thus it is with this Census of Butler County, Ohio, in the heart of the Miami Valley.

In 1962, Esther Benzling, Butler County Archivist, discovered these census records, hidden away in the county commissioners room of the Butler County Court House, and fortunately she realized the value of these papers to historians and especially to genealogists. The fireplace had been closed up for years, and this old census return which came only four years after Ohio was admitted as a state to the Union was among those discovered. While the other papers had historical value, these census returns were the prime papers in the lot for genealogical purposes.

The other papers showed plans and specifications for the first Court House as well as a few plats of land grants. Photographs of these papers have been made and are now bound together and stored in Butler County Recorder's office.

These lists were shown to Willard Heiss, who also recognized their importance to genealogy and the need to publish them. R. Thomas Mayhill became interested in publishing them, and Mr. Heiss and Mr. Mayhill have edited them as carefully as can be possible. Some of the handwriting was exceptionally difficult to translate, and when a question existed on the spelling or writing of a name, both names are given with question marks after each.

It was decided that the genealogist would have much more use from these if they would be alphabetized, which they have been, together with a code for the township of residence and the number of white male inhabitants of age 21 or over. Undoubtedly the list is the names of all households having voters and the number of voters in each.

White Male Inhabitants of over age 21
